AIMS AND SCOPE

ACTA ANTIQUA publishes original research papers, review articles and book reviews in the field of ancient studies. It covers the field of history, literature, philology and material culture of the Ancient East, the Classical Antiquity and, to a lesser part, of Byzantium and the Latin culture of Mediaeval, Renaissance and Early Modern Europe, as well as the 'Nachleben' of Classical Antiquity. The journal's languages are English, French, German, Italian, Latin or Spanish. Highly influential papers translated to these languages are also accepted if they were written originally in a language not represented in ACTA ANTIQUA, and their accessibility is promoted thereby.

EDITORIAL BOARD INFORMATION

Free from any external influence, they decide about the journal's policies in general, and – based on the outcome of a peer review – about the acceptance of papers in each concrete case.
